

Honoring the Legacy of Reed Clark Stock

01/30/2026

The English Department honors the life and legacy of Professor Reed Clark Stock, longtime USU teacher and scholar of literary history. His academic expertise and departmental leadership benefited students and faculty for many years over the course of his wonderful career at USU.

Department Head Brian McCuskey reflects, "When I arrived on campus as a new assistant professor, Professor Stock was so kind and generous in helping me to get oriented in the department and get started as a teacher. It was immediately clear to me that he was a role model to be followed, as I have done ever since."
